Texas Flat funding approved

BY DENA BISNETTE

After more than a decade of trying, the county will finally be able to pave Texas Flat Road.

Paving the road will cost about $4.4 million when the job is done, according to state highway specifications, but the money is on its way.

The Mississippi Senate has passed the Economic Development Highway Act, which will provide $3 million of the money for Texas Flat Road. The bill provides about $17 million for five projects, Hancock County Port and Harbor Executive Director Harold Olsen said.

Olsen added that Texas Flat Road is the only project south of Jackson that was funded.

Olsen said he called one of the state offices that handles economic development "on a whim" Tuesday afternoon and was told the bill had passed.

On behalf of the board of supervisors, he announced the appropriation late Wednesday, explaining that the governor is expected to sign the bill and official confirmation by mail should arrive within the next few days.

The other $1.4 million is expected to come from an Economic Development Block Grant. South Mississippi Planning and Development District is assisting with the application, which is contingent upon the final passage of the Economic Development Highway Act.

"We were assured of that money once the bill passed," Olsen stated.

The combined funds are expected to cover the cost of rights-of-way, paving and drainage for 13.4 miles of road and replacement of two bridges.

Olsen said the county got the money because paving Texas Flat Road will foster economic development and create jobs. The push for funding was based on NASA's recent investment of more than $375 million in the Advanced Launch System and Advanced Solid Rocket Motor programs, which are expected to produce about 1,600 jobs.

Texas Flat Road runs through the buffer zone for Stennis Space Center from Highway 603 to Highway 607 near one of the space center's main gates. It meets Highway 603 only a few miles from Stennis Industrial Airpark, and Olsen said that the opening of the route is expected to increase the amount of traffic at the airport.

The road is currently mostly gravel, with inadequate drainage and two bridges in need of replacement.

Attempts to obtain funding have continued for about a decade, and previous administrations used the road's proximity to the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant to try to get it classified under a military defense-related program.

Several attempts to get that money through the office of now-retired Senator John C. Stennis yielded little more than paperwork. Eventually, the county itself paid to pave section of the road from Highway 603 to a small cemetery near the McLeod Water Park entrance.

In 1987, about a year after the pavement was completed, it began to break up. The present board of supervisors began its attempts to fund the road through economic development-related programs, even discussing the matter at Washington, D.C., when the county was trying to assist the Stennis Space Center's drive to have the entire ASRM project located in Hancock County.

Space center officials were not successful, receiving only part of the ASRM program, but the supervisors were. They attracted the attention of Governor Ray Mabus, who sent representatives of his office to inspect the road.

Supervisors Michael Ladner and Wilmer Seymour accompanied the inspectors on a tour of the road and Stennis Space Center in January.

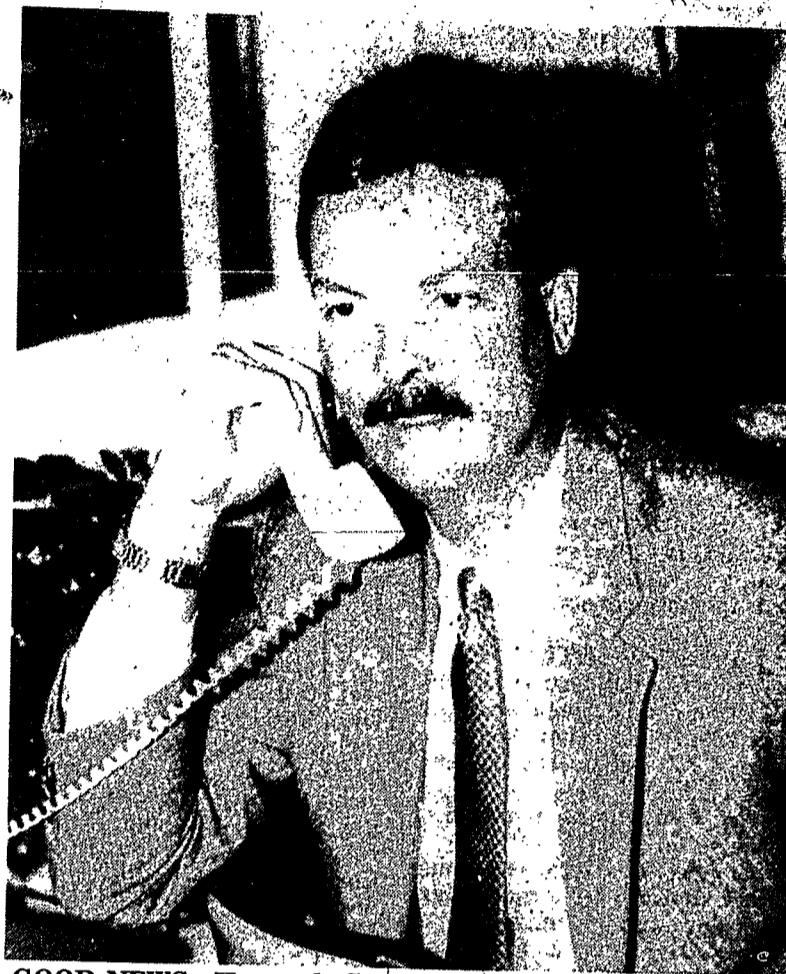

On Wednesday, Ladner said the entire board of supervisors was pleased to hear the news.

According to County Engineer Larry Seal, a reason for the $4.4 million cost is the need to build the road to state highway specifications. He said the road would have to be able to bear 80,000 pounds and at least 15 percent of the daily traffic is expected to be heavy trucks.

Seal, after talking with Olsen by telephone, said, "I think it's wonderful news."

The engineer said that once the grant funding is awarded and all arrangements in that area are finalized, the project will have to be advertised for bids like any other public work.

Seal's tenure as county engineer has been longer than that of any of the present supervisors. Texas Flat—Page 3A

Democrats choose officers; election now will be legal

BY D.C. HARVILL

Bay St. Louis' first primary election in May will be legal for the first time in recent history, according to a spokesman for the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee.

For an election to be legal it must be conducted and all candidates certified by an executive committee of the political party holding the primary election.

Until Saturday Bay St. Louis did not have a municipal Democratic executive committee, according to Charles Gottschalk, chairman of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee.

"For the first time in about a hundred years the election in Bay St. Louis will be conducted legally," he said.

"The city had something called a Democratic committee but it was not legally constituted," Gottschalk said.

The current, temporary committee became legal Saturday when it chose a chairman and a secretary, the two officers mandated by state election laws.

The committee is required to have six members, one for each office to be filled in the election. Voters will select a mayor and five council members in May's election.

School teacher Peggy Dutton, a contender for a council seat in January's special election, was chosen chairman of the committee. Toni Handshoe, office manager at Treutel Insurance was picked to serve as secretary.

Other members of the committee are Linda Beauregard, Maurice Singleton, Pat Murphy Sr. and Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr.

"Nobody questioned it. People are becoming more knowledgeable and questioning things they took for granted in the past," Gottschalk said of the lack of the previous lack of a legally constituted committee.

"Now all the candidates will be certified by the Bay St. Louis committee and the election will be technically legal," he said.

Had the committee not become legal, Gottschalk said, the Republicans possibly could have challenged the election and had Democratic victories overturned.

BY D.C. HARVILL

The right to vote is perhaps the most cherished and essential privilege embraced by Americans. But, to insure that voting is conducted in a fair and orderly manner, it is necessary that residents be registered to vote.

The voter registration deadline for Bay St. Louis' May election is noon Saturday, as is the deadline for candidate qualification.

To make the registration process as convenient as possible, Bay City Hall will be open for voter registration until 7 p.m. today and Friday, and until noon Saturday.

In the May election voters will choose who will represent them in the mayor's office and in all five council positions.

As of Wednesday, two candidates had qualified for the mayoral post, former mayor Larry J. Bennett and City Clerk Edward A. Favre.

In the District One council race retired postman and incumbent Charles Scianna currently is unopposed.

Retired Mississippi Power employee E.V. "Gus" Aime is the only candidate to qualify in the District Two race against the incumbent, teacher James Thriffley III.

The District Three slot currently is the most hotly contested, with Stennis Space Center technician Thomas "Tom" Farve and restaurateur Phil Williams challenging incumbent Charles Johnson, a G.E. Plastics employee.

District Four incumbent John Wilkerson, a planner with Rocketdyne, will square off at the polls against Mason Chamberlain, technician Tom Williams.

Competition for the Councilman-At-Large spot currently is between W.C. Fore Inc. general manager Burt Taylor and G.E. Plastics employee incumbent James "Jimmy" Rutherford.

In the last election held in Bay St. Louis there was about a 90 percent voter turnout, according to Deputy City Clerk Mike Cuevas.

"We are trying to encourage a good voter turnout by making the registration and voting process as easy as possible possible," she said.

Waveland residents seek to improve Coleman Ave.

BY JANET MCQUEEN

During Fred Peterman's 20 years as a Coleman Avenue businessman, he has observed a steady trend of "migration" to US-90.

He has watched city and county officials welcome highway businesses with open arms—and rightly so, he adds, realizing the boosts to city tax revenues.

But... "It's time to turn our attention back to where it all started in Waveland, on Coleman Avenue," he said.

Peterman and several other downtown businessmen have organized the Coleman Avenue Improvement Association, at the suggestion of Waveland Mayor John Longo Jr.

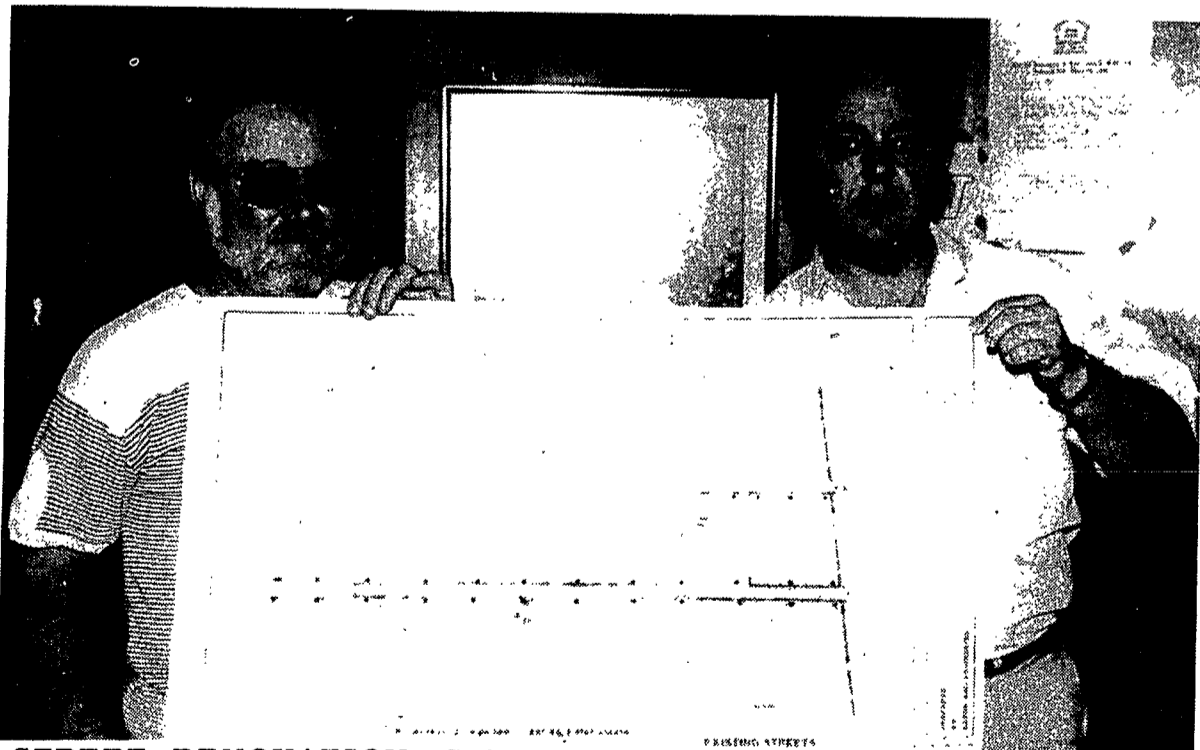

The group seeks to "work in unity for the beautification and revitalization of Coleman Avenue, in an effort to enhance property and businesses... and to provide a pleasant, enjoyable area for citizens and visitors to enjoy."

They plan to produce a brochure promoting the Waveland beach, the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier and various civic attractions in the area, including the Waveland Civic Center, library and playhouse.

The brochures would be placed in the Hancock County Welcome Center, Buccaneer Park and Chamber of Commerce offices. A listing of surrounding merchants will also be included.

Burglary

A Bay St. Louis man was arrested Sunday night at St. Augustine Seminary and charged with burglary.

Bay Police arrested Reginald A. Laneaux, 30, of 524 Sycamore St. after receiving a call that noises were coming from the seminary's workshop, according to Investigator Tom Burleson.

Laneaux is being held in Hancock County Jail on a $10,000 bond.

Arresting officers were Bay Officer Van Fayard and Gene Moran of Waveland Police Department.

Prepared childbirth classes offered

Hancock Medical Center will begin another Prepared Childbirth Class for all parents-to-be starting on April 3. The classes are taught by Janet Polozola, HMC's childbirth educator and they are free and open to the public.

The course meets in Hancock Medical Center's classroom on Mondays from 7 to 9 p.m. for a three-week period.

Classes cover general prenatal topics including films and lectures on breathing and relaxation, exercise and nutrition during pregnancy, what to expect from childbirth, the birth process, and decisions for feeding babies. It is recommended that both parents attend classes.

For those interested in Early Bird Classes (during first and second trimester of pregnancy) there is a special class offered.

This segment covers concerns of parents during pregnancy as well as information about early nutrition and early prenatal exercises.

In addition, new layette items will be given to certain parents choosing to deliver at Hancock Medical Center. These items are to be donated by Riverview Homemakers and Main Street Methodist Church.

Those interested in Prepared Childbirth Classes or the Early Bird segment should call Hancock Medical Center to reserve a space in class. The number is 467-9081 ext. 2330.

American Poetry Association seeks annual contest entries

The best 152 poets will win more than $11,000 worth of prizes in the American Poetry Association's new contest. The contest is open to the public and entry is free.

The grand prize is $1,000 and the first prize, $500. Other prizes include cash and book awards. All 152 winners will be published.

"Originality, sincerity and feeling are what the judges look for," said Robert Nelson, publisher for the association. "Many unknown poets have those talents in abundance. We want to encourage those poets to keep on writing."

Poets may send up to six poems, no more than 20 lines each, name and address on each page, to American Poetry Association, Dept. CT-30, 250 A Potrero St., P.O. Box 1803, Santa Cruz, CA 95061-1803. Entries should be mailed by June 30.

Each poem is also considered for publication in the American Poetry Anthology, a leading collection of today's poetry.

USM's EPA grant to fund Gulf environmental study

The Environmental Protection Agency has awarded the University of Southern Mississippi Division of Lifelong Learning $54,401 to facilitate public participation in an environmental plan for the Gulf of Mexico.

"The Gulf of Mexico is showing signs of environmental stress. Think of the Gulf as a person with the flu that could develop into a case of pneumonia if we don't start working now," said William Whitson, assistant director of operations for the EPA Gulf of Mexico Program office at the John C. Stennis Space Center.

"All parties—the citizens, states, federal agencies and industry—will work together to determine Gulf of Mexico problems and solutions. Then, we are going to work towards resolving them," Whitson said.

Most of the funds will be used to reimburse the expenses of citizens appointed by the governor to take part in the environmental management plan.

Mississippi's representatives are Bob Hunt of Pass Christian, J. L. Holloway of Jackson, John Lambeth of Biloxi, Harold Olsen of Bay St. Louis and Paul J. Delcambre Sr. of Biloxi.

Whitson said several problems prompted the program: rapid loss of valuable wetlands and near coastal waters wildlife habitat; the threat of pollution from pesticide run-off and other toxics; beaches strewn with marine debris from human activity in the Gulf; public health issues related to closure of shellfish beds; the maintenance of freshwater inflow into Gulf Coast estuaries; and excess nutrient loadings in Gulf Coast waters.

Some of the funds will be used to publish a summary of the committee's findings. For more information, call Margaret Chenault at 688-3054.

sors, all of whom are in their first terms. It was he who estimated the time the county had been trying to get funding for Texas Flat Road as a decade.

No one knows how long the road has been there, but once the project is completed, it will not only link the space center and the airport, but will also be available as an escape route in times of emergency.

Seal said the road was once known as Three Notch Road, allegedly because three notches were the symbol used by General Andrew Jackson's engineers when they laid out the road. As an engineer, he has said that the road looks deliberately laid out rather than winding, as an old wagon trail would.

He added that it was partially paved before the space center, then known as the Mississippi Test Facility, existed.

Memorial service will honor Barthe April 2

A memorial service for the late Dr. Richmond Barthe will be conducted at St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church on Sunday, April 2 at 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Barthe, a Bay St. Louis native and world-renowned sculptor and artist, died March 6 in Pasadena, California at the age of 88.

Several of his works will be on display during the service. The public is invited.

Community-wide recycling should be encouraged now

Historically, having thought of our country as a land of unlimited resources and endless space, we have shown little regard to what we produce and how we dispose of it.

Fortunately, we now realize we can no longer continue careless waste of materials and unsightly, unhealthy disposal practices.

In Hancock County, as elsewhere throughout the country, there is growing interest in the establishment of a recycling program to help conserve dwindling resources and keep our environment healthy and clean.

Hancock County currently is undergoing the lengthy, expensive process of creating a new landfill for disposal of our waste.

During the site selection process the county has learned, due to the health hazards inherent to landfill operations, such disposal is unlikely to be feasible in the future.

Several options currently are being investigated for the time when the new landfill too must be closed.

We think it is incumbent upon the officials of the county's three government entities to capitalize upon the building interest in recycling and to facilitate implementation of a community-wide recycling program.

Numerous communities across the nation already have successful recycling operations.

Islip, New York, famous for the wandering garbage barge of 1988, now recycles approximately one-third of its solid waste.

Having found recycling to be the most economical, as well as environmentally sound, disposal method, Islip hopes to increase that figure to 50 percent in the near future.

The involvement of everyone, not just the government, is necessary for the success of such an operation, but we feel the extra effort required will be more than repaid in community pride and an improved quality of life.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Military retirees denied Cost Of Living Adjustment

To the Editor:

The President's budget for fiscal year 1990 discriminates against military retirees.

There is no provision for Cost of Living Adjustments next year and it will be limited to 1 percent below the Consumer Price Index each year thereafter.

Why are military retirees being ignored? Why are we excluded when the Congress and DOD announced that no one on active duty or on retirement would be affected?

Such deceptive tactics contradict promises made to all career military personnel, including retirees, spouses, and widows who depend on SBP.

It is contrary to all promises which are being made to prospective career people who are being recruited.

This outrageous discrimination needs immediate correction.

Accentuate the positive in 'talking Mississippi'

Too many of the state's citizens seem to have a negative attitude about Mississippi, which discourages any effort to improve the image, both here and abroad. One often hears complaints but seldom possible solutions.

Well, the time has come to focus on the positive, but not to ignore the negative, simply correct it.

Mississippi has enacted a number of reforms designed to improve the quality of life for its citizens and improve the impressions of outsiders.

In the field of education, marked advances have been made in improving the state's public schools. Able leaders have been found to direct education in Mississippi, the results

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Tuesday is a very important election day for the qualified electors of Hancock, Harrison and Stone counties.

The Democratic Party will be selecting nominees for Chancery Court judges in Place 1, Place 2 and Place 3.

The party will also be selecting three nominees for the position of Circuit Court judge for the Second District.

In the Chancery races, each incumbent faces one opponent while the three incumbent Circuit Court judges have one person trying to replace one of them as the Democratic nominees.

A person will be able to vote for one, two or three persons in the Circuit Court judge races.

In prior elections each Circuit Court judge ran for a specific post, but this was changed in recent court action.

Qualified absentee electors can vote until noon at the Circuit Court clerk's office at the rear of the courthouse.

While on the subject of elections, the deadline for voter registration is noon April 1 for persons wanting to vote in the May 2, 1989 City of Bay St. Louis election.

Absentee ballots for the May election will be available on April 3 for qualifying electors.

It is important for everyone to vote in the May election, as every vote does count.

If you are not as yet registered to vote, remember the deadline for registration is Saturday at noon for the May election.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre is making a strong comeback after almost being history last year.

The theatre members are now making preparations for this season's first production, Neil Simon's 'The Odd Couple', scheduled for May 18, 19 and 20.

Along with the preparations for the play, on Saturday there will be preparations of the facility on Boardman Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

The clean-up will include the grounds and the building itself, so there is a need for all types of volunteer labor for Saturday.

A person need not be a member of the Little Theatre to help on this very worthwhile community project.

Suggested items for volunteers to bring are work gloves, hammers, nails, lawn mowers, paint brushes, paint rollers, weed eaters, trash bags, etc.

There is also a need for 20 gallons of red-barn paint or stain, and also some roofing and plumbing repair items are needed.

John Holmes is the theatre house chairman, and he is hoping there will be a lot of volunteers who will brown bag it on April Fool's Day for this community endeavor.

In case of rain, the clean-up day will be rescheduled for April 8.

The 42nd Annual Spring Pilgrimage, sponsored by the Mississippi Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs, continues with Pass Christian on the tour today.

Next Thursday will be the big day for the Bay-Waveland area.

I would like to wish a late happy birthday greeting to Mrs. Ina Piazza who celebrated her 80th on Wednesday.

I have known Mrs. Piazza for as long as I can remember since she has been a friend of my family before I was born.

I know there are a lot of her friends who would also like to wish her the best as she is involved in so many community projects.

Common goals needed for economic development

Just imagine what your lives would be like if you never planned ahead. And what if each member of your family made plans without ever talking to each other.

You would live day to day, and that better tomorrow might never come. It would be a dividend family, working apart instead of together.

Unfortunately, economic development in Mississippi has been too much like that. Sometimes we haven't planned far enough ahead and, as a result, events overtake us or we never catch up with our competitors.

Other times we have had economic development programs in Mississippi that duplicate or contradict each other.

Mississippians interested in providing more jobs and opportunities for our citizens have decided that enough is enough. We are doing something about it.

The Legislature created a special task force for economic development planning. The task force is made up of 36 people from all over Mississippi—people from the public and private sectors who know something about creating jobs.

The task force held 10 public hearings last fall, and they are now prepared to put together something that Mississippi has needed for decades—a long-range economic development plan.

This plan will identify the major issues that need to be addressed if Mississippi is to be a real competitor for jobs and trade.

Using this plan as a guideline, economic development efforts by state and local governments and businesses can be much more productive.

If Mississippi is to succeed, we must all work together. That is why the task force is important—out of this diverse group must come one plan, one vision for Mississippi's economy. That's the way it should be.

The task force can provide us with a vision of what Mississippi's economy can be and how we can get there, instead of being content with the way things are.

It is not enough to be competitive with our neighbors. We need to be competitive around the world. The task force can help show us the way.

No one person has the answer to economic development success. No one has a corner on the market when it comes to creating jobs. But the chances are greater that we will find some real solutions to our economic development problems through a group like the task force.

Economic development, like a family, succeeds when we work together toward a common goal.

HOMETOWN NEWS
From The Capitol City

By Mississippi
Reporting Service

There could be legalized gambling in Mississippi, at least in the waters of the Mississippi Sound out from Gulfport. Both the Senate and House this week voted to allow a cruise ship to open its casino while still in state waters.

The Senate passed the bill first, and the House, which has traditionally been much less resistant to legalized gambling, passed it the next day. The bill now goes to Gov. Ray Mabus for his signature.

Sen. Gene Taylor voted with the majority to allow gambling aboard the cruise ship Pride of Mississippi, operating out of Gulfport.

In the House, Rep. J. P. Compretta sided with winners in approving gambling.

The Senate vote also means that is perhaps more likely that other forms of gambling will be legalized in the future. The Senate has previously this session defeated proposals to establish a state-run lottery, a dog-racing track and video poker games.

The cruise ship Pride of Mississippi, which can handle 1,000 passengers, previously had to keep its casino closed until it left state waters. That reduced gambling to six hours out of a 10-hour cruise.

The question of whether or not to close the state's three charity hospitals, one of the year's most controversial issues, is finally settled.

After trying unsuccessfully to get lawmakers to shut down the facilities in Hattiesburg, Laurel and Vicksburg, Gov. Ray Mabus had to take the politically risky step of vetoing their appropriation last week. Hospital supporters lack the support of the two thirds of the House that they need to attempt to override the veto.

Mabus wants the hospitals' $7 million budget added to the state Medicaid budget where it can aid the poor throughout the state. A bill to formalize the closing of the charity facilities was sent to a conference committee.

Though few other significant bills were passed this week, the capital was a hive of activity as senators and representatives tried to iron out the differences between each chamber's version of the same bill.

Among issues still in conference is Mabus' state government reorganization proposal the Senate version is less far-reaching than the House reorganization proposal.

After the conference committees finish their work, each chamber will then be allowed to accept, reject or amend the compromise bill and possibly send it back to another conference.

This year's session is scheduled to draw to a close in only a week, on Sunday April 2.

HOUSE
SB 3069. The House agreed to procedures to supervise the operation of a gambling cruise vessel to operate out of Gulfport in the Mississippi Sound. It passed 84 to 23 with 11 absent or not voting and 2 pairs. This bill now moves on to Gov. Ray Mabus. Compretta, yes.

SB 3069. The House concurred with Senate-passed legislation that amends previous state laws to legalize gambling on cruise ships. It passed 65 to 39 with 12 absent or not voting and 3 pairs. It also moves on to Gov. Ray Mabus. Compretta, yes.

SENATE
SB 3068. The Senate sets up the procedures to supervise the operation of a gambling cruise vessel to operate out of Gulfport in the Mississippi Sound. It passed by a vote of 31 to 12 with 8 absent or not voting and one voting present. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

SB 3069. This accompanying legislation amends previous state laws to legalize gambling on cruise ships. It passed 23 to 17 with 9 absent or not voting and 1 pair. Taylor, yes; Tate, yes.

A pair is a parliamentary maneuver that allows a lawmaker to go on record supporting or opposing a bill but his vote does not count.

Hot line number available to register nursing home, hospital care complaints

About 14,000 Mississippians over age 65 currently live in nursing homes. As more Mississippians reach senior citizen status and live to be older than ever before, it is likely that some 24,000 will require nursing home care by the year 2000.

These figures, coupled with nursing home horror stories in the national press, leave Mississippi State Department of Health licensing staff with plenty of work. But a new hot line number may help them do their job better.

The Health Facilities License and Certification Division, MSDH, is providing a toll free hot line for persons who have complaints about the care given at hospitals, nursing homes, home health agencies, or other health care facilities. If a problem cannot be resolved with the facility's administration, concerned persons can now try another alternative.

Mendal Kemp, division director, believes this new complaint line will be a great advantage to the public.

"The hot line should make it more convenient for people to express their concerns, whereas if they had to pay for a long distance call, it might inhibit them. We want the public to communicate with us as soon as they see there is an unresolved problem."

The division licenses and inspects hospitals, nursing homes, personal care homes, rural health clinics, home health agencies, Medicare/Medicaid hospitals, and other health facilities throughout the state.

According to Kemp, health professionals will investigate every complaint, taking necessary actions to resolve any valid problems. He encourages persons who have concerns to use this hot line and call immediately.

"We don't want them to wait. The quicker we hear about a problem, the quicker we can work to remedy it."

The hot line number is 1-800-227-7308.

Last year the division investigated 161 complaints. Of this number 72 were valid or partially valid.

"We look into every complaint that we receive, whether they are in writing, on the phone, anonymous, or with a name," Kemp said. "Each health care facility is required to take corrective action of face penalties if a complaint is determined to be valid."

Parents being sought for therapeutic foster homes

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Mississippi Department of Public Welfare is looking for people qualified to serve as therapeutic foster parents.

As a therapeutic foster parent, those who participate in the program will be trained to help a child with behavior problems. In addition, foster parents will receive a monthly board payment as well as $500 per month to care for the child.

The Mississippi Department of Welfare will work with the foster parent, the child, a therapist and the child's family.

Celest Proulx, an adoption and foster care worker for Hancock County, said a meeting will be set up during the next few weeks for all prospective therapeutic foster parents.

She said the therapeutic foster home program differs from the regular foster care program because it is designed to help a child work through emotional problems.

In addition, special needs children are being targeted. Special needs children include minorities; disabled, retarded or emotionally disturbed children; large sibling groups; teenagers and others.

Proulx said experienced foster parents from some of the 16 foster homes now operating in the county will assist in the training process.

She said her department hopes to have at least one therapeutic foster home licensed in Hancock County by June.

It's how to use the experience you've already gained.

Fortunately, one Judge has used his experience to gain our trust.

As a former City Judge of Gulfport, a former Justice Court Judge and a Master in Chancery, Judge Morris has served our communities well with experience and integrity on the bench.

As Chancery Court Judge—Place 3 for the last 16 years, Judge Morris has opened all Chancery Court terms assigned to him during his 16 years on the Chancery Bench. His judicial decisions have been consistently upheld by the Mississippi Supreme Court.

His record shows deep concern for the rights of the people and the interests of innocent children.

As an active duty veteran of WWII, Johnny Morris served in the Navy and was attached to the Anti-Submarine Unit of the Naval Air Patrol Squadron. He served his country with courage and valor.

Now, as Senior Chancellor of Harrison, Stone and Hancock Counties, Judge Morris represents our legal system at its best.

Riches-to-rags stories do not interest most people, except in a morbid way, inasmuch as people tend to enjoy hearing about the fall, miseries, misfortunes and sufferings of others.

Rags-to-riches stories are a different matter, in view of the fact that practically all people want to prosper and to live in comfort, if not in luxury and extravagance. Virtually everyone, then, likes an exciting rags-to-riches story.

Rate the greatest rags-to-riches story which you have heard, and make a mental note of it. More than likely, you have not included what has to be rated as the most incredible rags-to-riches event in all of history, not even excluding fiction.

That story began in reverse; names, riches to rags: "Though he was in the form of God, he did not deem equality with God something to be grasped at. Rather, he emptied himself and took the form of a slave...he humbled himself, obediently accepting even death, death on a cross." (Phil. 2:6-8).

One who had all to lose and nothing to gain, freely chose the riches-to-rags route in order that the bumbling human beings, who had been created gratis, would receive eternal life gratis.

This greatest of all stories is of fable proportions, since none of it has the plausibility to be

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Riches to rags to riches rags switch: the Almighty, the Owner of the universe, is demoted to be born in a cattle cave without any earthly possessions or comforts.

A weak baby, given the name Jesus, the Almighty's power and majesty were hidden beneath vulnerable human form and limits.

Nor did this mask improve much as the child grew and was eventually relegated to quiet work in his foster father's carpenter shop.

The rags continued, even after Jesus left the carpenter shop and became an itinerant preacher, bringing everyone the Good News which did not include material riches of any king. In fact, Jesus openly admitted to all his followers:

"The foxes have dens, the birds in the sky have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head." (Matthew 8:20).

Worse, Jesus was not accepted by his own people, so that he had to admonish them about their lack of faith in their home boy:

"No prophet is without honor except in his native place, among his own kindred, and in his own house." (Mark 6:4).

Worst of all, the envious Jewish leaders finally had him crucified in shame and buried in a borrowed tomb.

At this point, the story becomes the most fabled rags-to-riches story in the chronicles of the human race: a dead man; then, within two score hours, an empty tomb, a live man who lives forever. Back to the bosom of the most Holy, Almighty Trinity!

Because of this Jesus, none of us ever has to be discouraged, depressed or despairing, since he suffered all these things just as we, and he assures us that he will carry us through.

The Alpha and the Omega, this Jesus is the one reason why people like the earthquake-ravaged Armenians and millions of others who are crushed and bereaved can take hope in the resurrection.

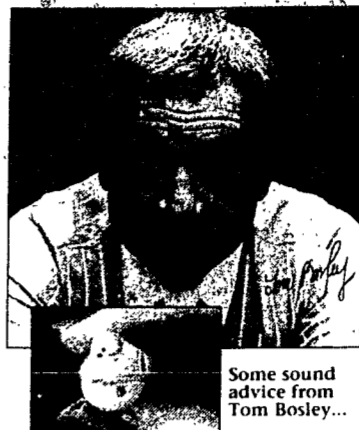

Because of this wounded, glorified Jesus, everything makes sense, even the terrors of cancer and other crippling and/or terminal diseases which would otherwise rob our life of its meaning and joy.

Because of Jesus, there is no room for cynicism or despair in our lives, since he conquered suffering and death itself, and showed that he will bring us to eternal fullness of life.

'Marriage Encounter' weekend slated April 21-23 in Biloxi

A Marriage Encounter weekend has been set for Friday, April 21, through Sunday, April 23 at the Howard Johnson Hotel in Biloxi, according to Alan and Rosemary Fries, area coordinators.

The weekend will be sponsored by the Gulf-Lake Marriage Encounter Community, including St. Tammany Parish in Louisiana and the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The weekend will begin at 8 p.m. on Friday, April 21 and concludes Sunday evening, April 23.

Marriage Encounter is for any married couple who desires a richer and fuller life together. "The weekend can make a good marriage a great marriage," according to the Frieses. They describe the weekend as a personal experience between husband and wife that revitalizes a marriage by teaching a new communication technique.

This technique enables a couple to privately explore important areas of their relationship in a spirit of love and understanding.

Couples interested in finding out more about the Marriage Encounter weekend may contact Dan or Pam Griffon at 452-2092, Pass Christian.

Marriage Encounter

weekends are sponsored every other month by the Gulf-Lake Community of World Wide Marriage Encounter, a non-profit organization.

"STOP ALL THIS PLEA BARGAINING"

It's time to stop plea bargaining with criminals and begin running the courts like a business.

It's time to clean up this big backlog of cases and put criminals in jail.

I will start court at eight o'clock, not at 9:30, or ten o'clock. Just about all the taxpayers in these three counties are on the job and hard at work at eight o'clock or earlier. They pay the salary and I plan to see they get a full day's work for their money.

Because it takes so long to get a case through the criminal court system, people feel there is no relationship anymore between crime and punishment. It is going to take long hours and hard work to return to the days of swift and appropriate punishment.

I've worked hard all my life. This job comes with a heavy workload, but hard work brings good results. We need to get to it.

I will appear on the Democratic ballot during primary voting on April 4. I am a veteran who served in the U.S. Army from 1965 through 1968.

Father Justin and chairman Carolyn Grassel would like to thank everyone who contributed to the success of the annual Easter Cake Sale sponsored by St. Ann-St. John Altar Society.

Saturday, April 1, Confirmation Class will be at 4 p.m. in the parish hall, an hour before the St. Ann Vigil Mass at 5 p.m.

Sunday, April 2, St. Ann's 9:30 a.m. Mass will be offered for all members of St. Ann-St. John Altar Society, living and deceased.

According to Pat Corbel, chairman, the wheels are in motion and preparations are underway for St. Ann-St. John's Fourth Annual Family Festival and Volleyball Tournament to be held Saturday, May 6 and 7 at Ladner's Friendly Inn Ball Field in Ansley.

Mark the dates on your calendar, you won't want to miss a minute of all the planned music, fun and excitement.

To volunteer your help in any way, call Pat at 467-5294 any weekday before 2 p.m. Anyone interested in setting up a craft booth, just give Pat a call.

LOCAL BRIEF

Senior Center

Located in the Valena C. Jones Bldg. at 301 Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis, the center serves Hancock County citizens 60 plus years of age.

Under the Hancock County Human Resource Agency, the center provides classes in ceramics, macramé, art, quilting, counted cross stitch, silk flowers, Christmas ornaments, framing, wood working and various other crafts. A morning snack is provided with donations from various clubs and businesses.

The center has a contract to provide 30 home delivered meals a day to those seniors who cannot provide for themselves, and 35 meals for those who have a need for a hot well-balanced meal daily in the cafeteria at the center.

Transportation is provided through a contract with Coast Area Transportation for most seniors in the county to bring them into the center, or to take them to the grocery, doctor, etc.

The contract with Methodist Senior Services provides two homemakers for about two hours a week to homebound, needy seniors to do light house-keeping or errands for them.

For more information, call the center at 467-9292 from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

INTERFAITH SERVICES

Oakland Hope for Life, Highway 603 and Longfellow Drive, Waveland, sponsors interfaith services each Sunday at 2 p.m.

Oakland's Christian Education Center provides classes on various topics at 7:30 p.m. each Thursday.

Jehovah's Witnesses to attend special Assembly Day

Southeastern Assembly Center in Hammond will be host Sunday, April 2 to a special Assembly Day of Jehovah's Witnesses.

The theme highlighted for the day's program will be 'Benefiting From Obedience to Divine Instruction.'

The program begins at 9:55 a.m. and concludes at 3:55 p.m. with a break from noon to 1:30 p.m.

Lewis Tillman, a local minister from the Bay St. Louis area said that there will be approximately 100 people in attendance from the local area, in addition to the 2,400 also expected to be in attendance from the Louisiana and Mississippi area.

An invitation is being extended to the public, free of admission, to enjoy a fine day of Bible-based, spiritual information.

G. M. Couch will be traveling from the world headquarters of the Watchtower Society which is located in New York.

He will be giving the main discourse of the day entitled 'Obedience Brings Benefits to Worldwide Brotherhood.'

A Statement By Judge Thomas Regarding His Campaign For Re-Election As Circuit Judge, Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

For over six (6) years, I have served Hancock, Harrison and Stone Counties as Circuit Judge. I would like to continue.

Judicial elections place judges in a uniquely difficult position. We cannot and should not make any promises other than to be fair and impartial—to simply do what is right regardless of the consequences. And since this district has such a heavy caseload, we cannot in fairness to you, the people we serve, stop working simply because an election is going on.

I feel I must eliminate much of the fanfare associated with the usual political campaigning and seek re-election primarily on the basis of my qualifications with the hope that those who want me as judge will care enough to vote in this special election.

BACKGROUND

I am a native of Gulfport; I graduated from Gulfport High in 1968. I went on to receive my Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1971 and then my law degree from Ole Miss in 1973. I went into private practice and later accepted a position as Assistant District Attorney in 1974. In 1982, I left the D.A.'s office as senior assistant to seek and ultimately successfully run for the Circuit Judgeship I now hold. When I was first elected as Circuit Judge by you in 1982, I was the youngest judge in the State. I now serve as Chairman of the State Circuit Judges Conference.

APPROVAL RATING

The lawyers who actually work in my court give me an approved rating of 98% in the last indepth poll conducted in 1986.

FAMILY

My wife, Sue, a former Biloxi school teacher, and I live in Biloxi with our two daughters. My family and I have made an investment in this, our home and community, with my public service formerly as a prosecutor and now as your judge.

PLEDGE

I pledged when elected to guarantee the rights of those accused of crimes, BUT I also stated and I have followed the rule—that victims of crimes have rights too—the right to see those who have done wrong punished and pay back that which they stole. There is no such thing as a free ride for criminals in my Court.

"I PLEDGE TO YOU, IF RE-ELECTED, TO CONTINUE TO BE TOUGH WHEN I MUST BE, COM-PASSIONATE WHEN I CAN BE, DILIGENT AND ALWAYS IN-DEPENDENT AND IMPARTIAL."

PLEASE VOTE TUESDAY, APRIL 4th, AND RE-ELECT ME ONE OF YOUR CIRCUIT JUDGES."

What's happened since you gave Judge Vlahos 10 years?

Ten years ago you elected Kosta Vlahos as Judge of Circuit Court to serve Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

A Lot Has Happened In Ten Years

Judge Vlahos has served us well these past 10 years. He is now the Senior Circuit Court Judge of this District. In addition to his regular duties as Judge, he administers the dockets and court in Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties.

He is the first Circuit Judge to achieve participation in the Harrison County Circuit Court budgetary process. As a result, the taxpayers will save over $100,000 annually in attorney's fees in indigent cases without cutting back on the quality of legal services for the poor.

In 1979, he attended the National Judicial College. He has participated each year in the continuing judicial education programs at the Mississippi Judicial College.

His family has grown too, and he and his wife Kally now have three children: Nicholas, 10; Stacey, 9; and Anthony, 5. The family lives in Biloxi, where they are members of the Holy Trinity Church.

25,000 Circuit Court Cases In A Decade

The dockets of our three judges are always filled. More cases, more trials, and more motions than ever before. Judge Vlahos has presided over thousands of these cases. He works hard. He is doing the job.

Why Judge Vlahos Needs Your Help

Judge Vlahos:

"A federal court has called a special election for April 4, 1989, which left me only 35 days to campaign in Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties. Because of my busy court docket, I cannot reschedule the terms of court to allow me time to campaign traditionally for my reelection. I trust the voters will understand why I will not be able to visit with them and ask personally for their vote and support."

Ten Years On The Bench Count

Each year has increased his value to the Circuit Court. His ten years of experience contribute every day to a more efficient and more just court system for our three counties. Judge Vlahos has earned our confidence and our vote. Let's give him another 10 years.

On April 4th, help reelect Judge Vlahos our Circuit Court Judge.

Bay Little Theatre slates 'Clean-Up-Day'

Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, in preparation for the May 18, 19 and 20 production of Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple," announces that a general clean-up and repair day has been set for Saturday, April 1 starting at 10 a.m.

"We need your help," said John Holmes, vice president and house chairman. "We intend to bring the Bay St. Louis community little theater back to 'stardom.' This Saturday come prepared to work, bring sponges, buckets, work gloves, hammers, nails, lawn mowers, weed whackers, and you name it. Pitch in! Help get the theater ready for opening night," he said.

The Boardman Avenue theater desperately needs roofing repairs, working toilets, ceiling fans, wiring, at least 20 gallons of red-barn paint or stain, a refrigerator, a brick sidewalk, termite proofing, etc. All professional work is tax deductible. "Don't let it rain on our actors, nor on our audiences for that matter. Be there on April Fools' Day. Brown bag it, spend the day helping to restore the grand ol' gal," said Holmes. In case of rain, the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre Clean-Up Day will be re-scheduled for April 8.

For additional information call Holmes at 467-3710.

Members of the association plan to appear before the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to ask them to begin resurfacing the Beach Road leading to Buccaneer Park earlier than planned. Work is scheduled to begin in the fall, according to Peterman.

"The mayor and supervisors have been very supportive," said Peterman. "Mr. Longo has agreed to construct attractive entrances to Coleman Avenue from Central Avenue and the beach, and is presently researching a design."

City Engineering Consultant Ray Eaton supplied the group with an architectural sketch of a renovated design of Coleman Avenue, featuring underground wiring, park benches and other improvements.

The association hopes to attract many of the annual visitors to Buccaneer State Park, whose numbers approached 500,000 last year, to the downtown Waveland area.

All business and property owners and concerned citizens of Waveland are invited to attend the group's next meeting on Wednesday, April 5 at 7 p.m. at Waveland City Hall.

Officers of the association are Peterman, president; Frank McNeil, vice president; Dixie Ashman, secretary, and Mike Schmitt, treasurer.

Waveland Little League accepting late registration

Waveland Little League is accepting late registration Friday.

A Little League meeting has been set for 7:30 p.m. at the Waveland Library and all coaches and parents are asked to attend.

Late registration will be prior to the meeting, from 6:30 p.m. until 7:30. It is the last chance to register and children ages six through 12 by Aug. 1 are eligible.

Tryouts for new players and players moving up will be Sunday from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m. for nine and 10 years olds and 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. for 11 and 12 years olds. All tryouts will be at Elwood Bourgeois Field at Central and Waveland Avenue.

Returning players who are not moving up do not have to tryout but must reregister if they have not already done so.

A coaches meeting will be Sunday at 7 p.m. at Waveland Library. Team assignments will be discussed at that time.

Officers for this year are Bernard Tusa, president; Charles Johnson, vice president; Marian Laurente, treasurer; and Janet Roche, secretary.

SSC'S MARC MATHERNE

Time Out

By Dena Bisnette

We're starting to hear even more about baseball as the weather gets warmer.

I'm delighted, because baseball has always been a favorite of mine. With two brothers who started playing at ages five and six and stayed in the sport until their late teens, I was always at the ballpark during the summer.

Baseball is one of those sports that has room for players with a wide range of abilities and transcends age because there are so many different versions of it. You play hardball when you're young and fast, then you can slow down for the softball version when your abilities change and you have more power behind your bat or in your throwing arm.

There's a lot of appeal in a game that just about anybody, from tiny kids to the gray-haired folks in the church softball league, can play. There are a couple of events coming up that reflect the old diamond's range, as well as a few in other sports.

Tomorrow night is your last chance to get your child involved in Waveland Little League.

A general meeting is scheduled for Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Waveland Library. All coaches and interested parents should attend.

If you have not yet registered your little leaguer for the 1989 season, come early. Late registration is being accepted from 6:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Children who are at least six years old and not older than 12 by Aug. 1 are eligible. Tryouts for players moving up to a different age division are Sunday and players need to register before they can try out.

The Pearl River Community College Wildcat Club is sponsoring an April 22 softball tournament and is looking for teams to participate.

Entry fee is $75 per team and entries will be accepted from April 1 until April 8. To register, call Larry at 795-4074. A $25 deposit is required and can be mailed to Fornea Spiers, 304 South Main, Poplarville, Miss. 39470.

Those entering should call Larry back on April 12 to find out when they are scheduled to play. The tournament begins at 8 a.m. at Poplarville and will be played according to USSSA rules.

The Wildcat Club will provide trophies for the first and second place teams and jackets for the first place team.

Anyone taking the current Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation hunter's education class or who has already taken one can qualify for a hunter's education instructor's workshop. An instructor's workshop will be offered from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. April 15 at the headquarters building in Paul B. Johnson State Park near Hattiesburg.

There is no fee for the course and certification is available upon satisfactory completion.

For more information, contact Antoine Boyd at 467-5108 or the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson, 961-5300.

Boyd said several more instructors are needed for the Hancock County area.

Recreation Association sponsors 'Community Day at VCJ'

The Hancock County Recreation Association is sponsoring Community Day at Valena C. Jones.

The festivities will be at the VCJ gym and grounds on April 1 and 2 starting at noon both days.

Booths spaces are available to any interested parties (including non-profit groups) to sell items to raise money for their particular cause.

Sunday, April 2 will be an afternoon of basketball tournaments in the gym. There will be live entertainment and games for children as well as fun and goodies for all.

Rocks hold 2-1 district record

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaw baseball team dropped a 10-inning 7-6 decision to George County Tuesday night bringing their overall record to 4-4-2, and 2-1 in District 4A play.

SSC held a comfortable 6-1 lead in the top of the third inning, thanks to Scott Heitzmann's home run, and doubles by Cedric Smith and Greg Schuff.

Several fielding errors by the Rock-A-Chaws allowed the Rebels to explode for a 5-run rally in the bottom of the third, and suddenly the game was tied 6-6 at the end of three innings of play.

Sparkling pitching by Cedric Smith shut down the George County hitters, while the Rock-

A-Chaws continued to gather hits but leave runners stranded on base.

SSC outhit George County 11 to 8, but a double by Herman Tanner followed by an SSC fielding error accounted for George County's winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Effective relief pitching by Rob Taylor of George County made the difference in the ballgame, as he struck out 15 Rockachaw batters in five innings of relief pitching.

Losing pitcher for St. Stanislaus was Cedric Smith, whose record stands at 1-2-1.

Last Saturday the Rockachaws defeated defending champion d'Iberville 1-0 in a 9-inning contest at Rockachaw stadium.

After leaving seven runners stranded on base throughout the contest, the Rocks finally won the game in the bottom of the ninth as Gino Ascani led off with a walk, stole second, and scored on Tom Zant's blast to left field.

The previous day the Rock-A-Chaws opened their district play with a 20-4 victory over Hancock North Central.

The winning pitcher was Greg Schuff, who allowed five hits.

SSC scored three runs in the first, five in the second inning, and had a big 12-run third inning to put the game out of the Hawks' reach.

Casey Davis absorbed the loss for Hancock North Central.

Scott Heitzmann led the Rock-A-Chaw hitting attack with six RBIs, followed by Lloyd Nicaud with 5 RBIs.

The Rock-A-Chaws collected thirteen hits in the contest, which was called after four innings.

SSC presently has six hitters hitting over .300 after ten games, with Heitzmann leading with a .536 average, followed by Nicaud .387 and Marc Matherne .348.

Next home game for St. Stanislaus is this Friday when the Rock-A-Chaws host the East Central Hornets. Game time is 3:30 at the SSC diamond.

Leo Seal named 'Distinguished American' by MSU chapter Nat. Football Foundation

Leo W. Seal Jr., of Bay St. Louis, and Jack Cristil of Tupelo will be honored at the First Annual Awards Banquet by the Mississippi State University chapter of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame, Friday night, March 31 at Best Extension Center.

Seal, a 1949 MSU alumnus, will receive the chapter's Distinguished American Award, while Cristil, "The Voice of the Bulldogs," is being honored by the new NFHF Chapter with its Contribution to Amateur Football Award, Bob Harley, chapter president, announced.

One of MSU's most honored graduates, Seal was a football letterman as an outstanding tackle under coach Allyn McKeen, 1947 and '48, following in the footsteps of his father, who lettered at Mississippi A&M in 1909 and '10.

Among Seal's many achievements, he is a past president of the Mississippi Economic Council, the Mississippi Bankers Association, Gulfport Chamber of Commerce, Gulfport Rotary Club, Gulfport Gridiron Club and the Mississippi Coast Chapter of the national football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

A past state chairman of the Cancer Crusade, Seal was selected Mississippi State University Alumnus of the Year for 1983.

The Dean of Southeastern Conference sportscasters, the personable Cristil has been broadcasting MSU athletics since being hired by the legendary C. R. "Dud" Noble in 1953.

One of the University's most beloved good-will ambassadors, Cristil has been honored as the "Outstanding Sportscaster in Mississippi" 20 times in the past 25 years.

Tigers drop district games

The Bay St. Louis Tigers resume baseball action Friday when they play Pearl River at 4 p.m. in Pearl River.

A game against Vancleave was cancelled due to Spring break, but the Tigers will face the Jackson County team in a home game at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Bay High has almost wrapped up its March schedule, dropping district games to Stone County and Pass Christian.

The Tigers went into tournament play with some experience because all of the early season games were not district games.

However, the Tigers lost 7-0 to Stone County in Wiggins despite good defense by Kyle LaFontaine and Charlie Mitchell.

Doug Power held the Tomcats close until the last two innings, when Stone scored on two homers.

Losing pitcher was David Weems, with Will Seymour as relief pitcher.

In the Pass Christian game, the Tigers jumped out to a 2-1 lead in the first two innings behind Mitchell's pitching and good catching by Power, but ended up losing the game 5-3.

Scott Barnes turned in two singles. Weems went one for two, Chris Heaps was two for two; and Thomas Brinks and Calvin Thigpen were each one for three. Power and Mitchell both went one for two.

In the bottom of the sixth, Mitchell walked the first two batters and was relieved by Seymour.

The Pass Christian Pirates scored four earned runs in the bottom of the sixth to beat the

Bumper-To-Bumper announces Talladega ARCA race sponsorship

Lee Synnott, president of A-I Automotive, has announced that Bumper-To-Bumper auto parts will sponsor the ARCA 500-kilometer stock car race at Talladega Superspeedway on Saturday, May 5.

The announcement was made in Atlanta prior to the running of the ARCA 500K.

The sponsorship agreement, which runs through 1991, calls for the race at Talladega to be named the Bumper-To-Bumper 500K. Red Farmer, veteran Hueytown, Ala. driver, is the defending champion of the event.

"This is something that we have been considering for some time. When we became aware that we could sponsor a race at the World's Fastest Speedway, we decided to do it," said Synnott.

A-I Automotive, with major distribution centers in Birmingham, Chattanooga and New Orleans, supplies auto parts and marketing services to more than 200 Bumper-To-Bumper stores throughout the Southeast, including Auto World, across from the Bay St. Louis Post Office on US-90.

Bill Baker, vice president and general manager of A-I Automotive's southeastern region, noted the relationship with Talladega would be mutually beneficial.

"There is a very close relationship between the auto parts business and motor sports. Many of our customers, and our customers' customers are big stock car racing fans," pointed out Baker.

"The Bumper-to-Bumper organization is pleased that we were able to become involved in racing through sponsorship of one of the major ARCA races. It is also a tremendous benefit to have the race at Talladega Superspeedway because of its geographic location in the center of our southeast marketing area."

"There is no question that our involvement with racing will increase the recognition of the Bumper-To-Bumper Auto Parts name among the dealers, repair shops and mechanics that are our day to day customers," concluded Baker.

USM hosts girls' basketball camps

Girls who want to learn more about basketball may wish to enroll in a summer basketball camp planned at the University of Southern Mississippi.

A 'Lady Eagle Summer Basketball Camp' for junior high and senior high school students in grades 7-12 will be held June 19-23.

The 'Lil' Lady Eagle Camp for girls in grades 2-6 will be July 10-14.

Both camps will offer daily instruction on basketball fundamentals as well as afternoon and evening scrimmages. Individuals will be able to display their talents in two-on-two, three-on-one, hot shot and other competitions.

Cost of the high school camp is $180 per camper, with team rates of $160 per member available. The fee includes meals and housing.

The 'Lil' Lady Eagle Camp, which will meet from 8 a.m. to noon, costs $50 per camper.

For information, call the USM Division of Lifelong Learning at 266-4201.

Turkey's gobble is call to arms

By Eva Ann Dorris
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

While the gobble of a wild turkey might go unnoticed by some people, for more than 65,000 resident turkey hunters, it's a call to arms.

Most hunters aren't practicing their shooting skills, but rather their gobbling skills.

"Spring turkey hunting is scheduled to coincide with peak gobbling activity of male turkeys—they gobble to attract female turkeys," said Dr. Bob Griffin, wildlife biologist and research coordinator with the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Hunters attempt to imitate the sounds of wild turkeys to call the birds up or get them close enough to shoot.

"The challenge is to call the turkey up to a close enough range to be able to kill it with a shotgun," Griffin said. This means within 25 to 30 yards.

Getting a turkey this close requires skill and patience, but it is apparently this need for skill that is attracting hunters to the sport in record numbers. Turkey hunters have almost doubled in number during the past 12 years. And as the turkey population continues to increase, hunter numbers will too.

According to Griffin, the best hunting time is early morning. "Turkeys gobble on the roost and sound off before they fly down," he said. "Hunters can locate the turkey and try to set him up with a responding call."

"It is essential that hunters wear complete camouflage," Griffin said. "Turkeys can pick out details even without movement."

Griffin warned that hunters shouldn't wear anything with red or white on it.

"An excited gobble has a lot of red. Its waddles (the fleshy part that hangs from the neck) turn blood red, and its head can turn from almost blue to white," Griffin said. "We have had hunters mistaken for gobblers. Several hunters have been shot, and we have even had some killed."

Mississippi's turkey population has made a remarkable comeback in the past 50 years, when the breed almost reached extinction in the state. Today, estimates place the population at around 400,000 birds.

The Eastern species of wild turkey, native to Mississippi, are thinner, leaner and longer-legged than domestic turkeys. A wild turkey weighs about 17 to 20 pounds and usually has no white feathers. Domestic turkeys tend to have white tips on their tail feathers.

Trophy turkeys are measured by three physical traits: beard length, spur length and weight.

"Jakes (male turkeys under one year of age) can have anywhere from a one-inch to five-inch beard," Griffin said. "It is not unusual for gobblers over two years old to have beards of nine inches or longer."

Spurs are on the inside, lower part of the bird's leg. These projections get longer with age and are used to fight.

"A gobble with a spur length of more than one inch is considered a good adult gobble," Griffin said. "A 20-pound gobble is usually a good trophy size. Anything over 20 pounds is an extremely good gobble."

According to Griffin, this has been a good winter for turkeys, and gobblers should go into the hunting season in excellent condition.

"They are heavier during this time of year and will start losing weight into the breeding season," he said.

In addition to gobbling for the female's attention, the male turkey will also "strut." A ritual Griffin described as a method of courtship.

"A gobble will expand his air sac (to make chest feathers more prominent) and drop his wings and drag them," Griffin said. "Gobblers can actually drag their wing tips off during a mating season."

"They also fan their tails and make a drumming noise," he said. "To watch a gobble strut is one of the most fascinating things about these turkeys. Everybody ought to see this at least once."

Turkeys prefer bottomland, hardwood habitats or open timber areas.

"A turkey likes to be able to see. They have tremendous eyesight and depend on this sense for defense," Griffin said. "They have no curiosity. If they are spooked by movement or unusual detail, they leave."

Statistics from MDWC show the success rate for turkey hunters is better than 50 percent, and the successful hunters average two birds per year.

For the other 50 percent of the hunters who haven't yet experienced success, this may be the season.

Dr. George Hurst, a wildlife professor at Mississippi State University who leads various turkey research projects, predicts a good supply of mature gobblers this year.

Windsurfing regatta to kick off fair, expo

Mississippi Coast Coliseum officials announce the Barq's Sail-A-Bration Pro-Am windsurfing regatta as part of the 1989 Mississippi Coast Fair and Expo.

The regatta, co-sponsored by Barq's Root Beer, Mistral Inc., Bel-Bru Windsurfing Gulf Coast, Hot Seasons Action Sports Center and the Mississippi Coast Fair and Expo, will be held on the beach directly in front of the Mississippi Coast Coliseum May 20-21.

As a first time event for the state, it will help kick off this year's ten-day extravaganza.

Race officials are anticipating participation on a regional basis, with many nationally known personalities who have competed in the National and International Olympics.

Amateur Softball Association prohibits non-sanctioned tournament play

Tommy Esposito of Biloxi, Amateur Softball Association District 1 commissioner has announced there are significant ASA softball rule changes and clarifications for 1989, which can be found in the 1989 Official ASA Guide and Playing Rules Book.

There will be a State Co-Ed and Men 35 and over ASA tournament played in Moss Point July 21-23.

District Men and Women A will be played June 19-25. Co-Ed and 35 and over players will be allowed to play in more than one Championship Division.

District or State Major Men or Women ASA tournaments will not be played in Mississippi in 1989.

Esposito stated that any ASA Adult or Youth teams are prohibited from participating in non-sanctioned invitational tournaments. ASA teams that break the above rule could be barred from ASA District Play in 1989.

District 1 will also have a Regional E. Men Host Team playoff in Gulfport June 3-4. Butch Weaver tournament director. The winner will bypass District and State tournaments. Any ASA registered team will be eligible to enter.

The following Deputy ASA District 1 commissioners have been appointed for the 1989 season: John Welch, 475-7887, Jackson and George Counties; Leigh Brown, 875-8665, Ocean Springs, Vancleave and St. Martin; Stan Warner, 392-6133, and Assistant Deputy Roy Thurman, 388-0600, d'Iberville and Biloxi; Butch Weaver, 896-3386, Gulfport, Orange Grove and Hancock County; Jerry Stough, 798-7489, Piquette and Pearl River County.

District Junior Olympic commissioner is Gerald Lamey, 392-2821; Chief Deputy District commissioner, Maxine Esposito, 388-8136; District Umpire-in-Chief Andre Kaufman, 872-2766; District Chief Deputy Umpire-in-Chief Howard McNeill Jr.

District Deputy Umpires-in-Chief are James McIntyre and Stan Warner. District Player Representative is Butch Weaver.

Umpires and teams may register and receive rosters from any of the above area deputies. The adult team and youth team roster deadline will be announced by each District Tournament director.

Archie's Army seeks support of Ole Miss athletic program

When quarterback Archie Manning led The University of Mississippi to a 1970 Sugar Bowl victory, Ole Miss fans were behind him all the way. Dubbed "Archie's Army," they marched on campuses from Knoxville to Baton Rouge in support of Manning and the Rebels.

Today, Archie's Army is being resurrected at Ole Miss—but this time its members will be actively ensuring the future of all athletic programs at the University.

By contributing $100 or more to The Drive for Athletics at Ole Miss, Rebel fans will be eligible for membership and receive a button denoting their participation in Archie's Army. (The original Archie's Army button came into existence after Ole Miss beat Tennessee 38-0 in 1969).

"I have always felt a sense of indebtedness to the people of Mississippi and Ole Miss for the way they have supported me in the past," Manning said. "I hope that they will also support this project, which will benefit Ole Miss for years to come."

Donations to Archie's Army will enable the University to complete the goals of the drive, a capital improvements campaign to benefit campus athletic facilities. Of the $10 million needed to complete the projects, $5.6 million has been raised so far.

Donations should be made payable to The University of Mississippi Foundation and sent to The University of Mississippi Foundation, Archie's Army, P.O. Box 249, University, MS 38677.

For further information about Archie's Army or other Drive for Athletics giving programs, contact the Foundation at (601) 232-5944.

Bulldogs open football drills

Activity has returned to the football practice football fields at Mississippi State University where head football coach Rocky Felker is directing his fourth spring practice session.

Approximately 85 football candidates, including 21 returning starters, are taking part in the off-season practice session, which includes up to 15 workouts in pads and five workouts in shorts.

"The No. 1 goal is making sure we have our people in the right positions," said Felker. "We want to put our best 22 players on the football field. Coming off a bad year, it's not like we have a lot of strengths even though we return 21 starters. We've got to get a lot better at a lot of positions."

The first four-day week of spring drills will be devoted to football fundamentals, with the coaching staff evaluating the progress during spring break week before resuming practices March 28.

Spring drills conclude April 22 when the squad is divided for the annual Maroon-White spring football game, set for a 12:30 p.m. kickoff at Scott Field.

Junior tennis clinic slated

Saturday, April 1, there will be a Junior Tennis Participation Day at the Gulfport Racquet Club. The introductory tennis clinic is free to boys and girls in grades three to six.

Age groups will participate as follows:

Grades 3 to 4, noon to 1 p.m.; grade 5 from 1-2 p.m.; and grade 6 from 2-3 p.m.

Domino's Pizza will be sold by the slice. Gulfport Racquet Club will provide drinks and prizes.

To reserve a spot call 896-3554 (limited number of free racquets available for use).

Gulfport Racquet Club is located at 315 Courthouse Road.

This event is a community service in conjunction with Domino's Pizza and The Gulfport Racquet Club.

Coast Guard says yes to new license regulations

With a stroke of the pen, Coast Guard headquarters in Washington has finally published the long awaited new licensing regulations for masters, mates and engineers.

The final rules encompass all of the required licenses for charter boat captains, fishing guides, ferry boat operators, sightseeing boats and super tankers.

The wide reaching re-write of the archaic licensing regulations means that everyone can now expect fair and equal interpretations from the various Coast Guard offices in licensing matters.

To obtain the information and opportunities offered in these new regulations, one would need to have the document in a readable format. Sea School, the nation's leading license prep school, has commissioned the publication of a consolidated edition of the new regulations under one cover.

The new booklet has been received with such rave reviews that Sea School has been asked to provide copies to all Coast Guard licensing offices.

For information on how to obtain your personal copy of the new regulations, call the Licensing Hotline, 1-800-237-8663.

MSU netters remain undefeated at home

They say there's no place like home and for the MSU men's and women's tennis teams, nothing could be closer to the truth.

Both teams currently hold identical 7-3 dual match records and perfect home marks at the Pitts Tennis Center. The Bulldogs have won seven of their last eight matches, while the ladies have four straight wins to their credit. In SEC competition, the Lady Bulldogs hold a perfect 3-0 record, including wins over Vanderbilt, Auburn and LSU. The men's contingent owns a 3-1 mark after knocking off Vandy, Auburn and Florida, while only falling to arch-rival Mississippi in Oxford.

Perfect records may be rare but this year's team seems to have its share as two doubles teams and one singles spot boast unblemished marks. Senior standouts Jackie Holden and Claire Pollard have begun their final seasons with a perfect 7-0 doubles record in dual match play. The duo holds a 21-2 mark on the year with their only losses coming in the prestigious Rolex National Indoor Invitational this past fall.

For the men, the duo of Mark Jeffrey and Max Koep, playing together for the first time, have racked up a 4-0 mark in dual match play. Teammate Roy Moscatini holds the only undefeated record in dual match singles with a perfect 9-0 mark.

Other team members have come close to perfection this season—Juan Rios holds an 8-2 dual match record and Max Koep comes in next at 5-2, while Lady Bulldogs Sabine Guibal and freshman Zella Kuhn have only one loss each, 9-1 and 6-1, respectively, on the dual match season.

Bassin' with the pros

1989's hottest lure may be an oldtimer

In case you've been wondering what might be the hottest bass lure for 1989, don't be surprised if it turns out to be a soft plastic fish catcher that's been around for more than three decades.

It's called the grub, and it is nothing more than a short, squat plastic worm measuring two to five inches in length. For some reason, bass fishermen are re-discovering the lure this year.

"Grubs really are one of the best lures available," says top tournament pro Ricky Green of the Johnson Outboards Pro Staff. "It's an old standby that everyone seems to have forgotten, but a grub will catch bass when other lures don't."

Grubs appear to imitate small injured shad, says Green, which makes them visually effective, and because they have no built-in action of their own, an angler can really use his imagination when fishing them. Thus, they're versatile lures for a variety of water conditions.

"My favorite place to fish grubs are along rocky points, beside the outer edges of vegetation, or near channel breaks where bass are suspended," says Green. "It's a quick limit lure that doesn't always catch big bass, but it catches a lot of bass."

Green frequently fishes grubs like jigs, hopping them along the bottom. One of his favorite techniques is a double-hop, in which he snaps his rod upward to make the grub jump off the bottom. Before the lure begins falling, he snaps the rod upward again, causing the grub to jump a second time. Then he slowly lowers the lure back to the bottom.

"In that sequence, the lure really does look like an injured shad minnow," says the Johnson pro. "Hits come most often as the lure starts falling after the second jump."

Grubs are sold in two basic styles, those with straight, paddle-like tails, and those with curly, swimming tails. Lengths in both styles range from two to about five inches. The lures are rigged with lead-head hooks of various weights.

Green suggests anglers begin with a three-inch grub rigged with a 1/4-ounce leadhead, and fish it with 10-pound test line with a spinning rod. In colder water he recommends using a straight tail grub, but when temperatures warm later in spring, a curly tail version should be tried.

"In clear water lakes, the fish may be deeper," explains Green, "and a heavier leadhead may be used. When the bass are shallow, such as less than 10 feet, a lighter head may be used."

"The lure is fished with the hook exposed, so you have to be careful where and how you fish a grub, but with accurate casting you can work heavy cover successfully."

Although Green has used grubs for years, he doesn't know why so many other anglers continue to overlook their effectiveness. "You have to admit grubs aren't very exciting to look at," laughs the Johnson angler. "They don't buzz or whir or do anything fancy."

"Perhaps the bass, because of all the fishing pressure they're receiving now, are too accustomed to seeing and hearing the other lures. When a small, silent lure like a grub drops in front of them, they may really think it is something to eat."

Captive wildlife regulations set

Wildlife held in captivity. The idea of public involvement here is, in general, to be avoided, according to the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

For years laws have been enforced to prevent the public from holding game and furbearing animals in captivity. Wildlife officials say the practice can be dangerous and is not always in the animals' best interest.

Item: Last winter an elderly couple in Lawrence County was severely mauled and hospitalized when a penned white-tailed buck that had been turned loose attacked the man while he was gardening. The man was gored several times and his wife was injured as she attempted to help him fend off the animal. A passerby saw the incident and stopped to assist, but ended up being mauled by the deer. It was necessary to kill the animal to stop it. The man remained hospitalized several days and incurred medical bills over $8,000.

This is one of many instances over the years investigated by DWC officers. Said one official: "The long-term effect is that we have to get away from keeping captive wildlife."

To take care of the problems case-by-case. So now we are taking steps for animals currently held and make it possible for the owners to get a permit to keep it. But once the animal dies—there are no more permits," Tullos said.

Among those exempted under the law are certain public zoos, educational institutions

Law Enforcement Dan Tullos explained.

"Once a permit is issued to a person holding an animal, then there will be no further permits issued after that animal dies. And the main reason we are doing this is to get the general public out of the business of holding wildlife captive."

"What we are concerned with primarily is what's good for the resource...we don't want the public to be injured by animals that have lost much of their fear of man" — Hackett surrounding wildlife held in captivity, the Commission on Wildlife Conservation passed regulations last fall further strengthening existing laws making it illegal to hold the following animals in captivity: white-tailed deer, gray squirrel, fox squirrel, cottontail rabbit, swamp rabbit, raccoon, opossum, bobcat, river otter, muskrat, mink, nutria, skunk, weasel and wild turkey.

"These regulations create a once-in-a-lifetime permit for someone holding one of these animals in captivity," Chief of Tullos said that the business of captive wildlife has developed from people picking up what they perceive to be wildlife stranded and needing attention. Deer fawns, he says, are a good example.

Each year, Tullos said, many Mississippians find deer fawns in the fields or woods, assuming they have been abandoned by their mother. But in the majority of cases this isn't true. Most of the time the doe deer has placed the fawn there and will return to it.

For the general public to have captive wildlife in their possession they must, among other things: 1) Make application for a permit on or before April 1, or as soon as possible thereafter. They will have six months to comply with the new requirements for keeping captive wildlife; 2) Have the game or furbearing animals in private possession on or before Jan. 28, 1989; and 3) Sign a statement agreeing to all conditions of the permit allowing them to keep captive wildlife.

"Basically our goal is to have all listed species of game and furbearing animals out of hands of everyone except those meeting the necessary requirements," biologist Ed Hackett explained.

Chief of Game for the Department of Wildlife Conservation, Hackett realizes that the whole area of captive wildlife is a very emotional issue, because a great many people have wildlife in their possession.

Summer boys' basketball camps set at USM

Young men who want to learn more about playing basketball may enroll in two summer basketball camps planned at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Nationally recognized USM head basketball Coach M. K. Turk and other outstanding coaches will lead individualized and team sessions in the June camps.

"We hope to see a first-grade boy progress in this basketball skills each summer to the point where, in his senior year, we can sign him up to play for the Golden Eagles," said Robert McInnis, USM assistant basketball coach.

The June 12-16 camp, for boys entering grades 1-6, will be held from 8 a.m. to noon. Young men in grades 7-12 may enroll in a June 26-30 camp.

Both camps will feature night games, highlight films of camper and Metro Conference games, air-conditioned dormitories, planned meals and use of the USM pool and other recreational facilities. Fee for full-time campers is $185; commuters pay $135. Teams of five or more pay $160 per person, and fees include insurance and awards.

Approved by the Mississippi High School Activities Association and the Mississippi Private School Association, all camp activities are supervised by adults.

To find out more or to register for a basketball camp, call the USM Division of Lifelong Learning at 266-4190.

Golden Glove Boxing Championship slated

The Biloxi Boxing Club will host the Mississippi State Golden Glove Championships in Biloxi on April 8 and 9 at the Biloxi Hilton Hotel, West Beach, Hwy. 90.

Weigh-ins will be from 8 a.m. on Saturday, April 8 until 1 p.m. Boxing will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday. Finals will start at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

In the event of a large registration, a matinee may be held on Saturday at 3 p.m. Physicals will be administered just prior to the boxing.

An Officials and Coaches Clinic will be held on Saturday afternoon. Time to be announced at weigh-ins.

All clubs are requested to invite an official to participate in the tournament. All clubs are asked to make an effort to bring their boxers to the 1988-89 Mississippi Golden Gloves Championship Tournament.

Mississippi clubs will receive a registration package in the mail.

All other interested parties may request information by writing Bill Moran, 1320 Beard's Cove No. 4, Gulfport, MS 39507, or call 1-896-3730 collect.

Diamondhead artist emphasizes creativity

BY DENA BISNETTE

Artist Peggy Wolfe Carter has been painting since she was eight years old.

She remembers her very first art lesson—the one her father gave her when she helped him build a wooden boat, and how she found a creative outlet in an everyday-life event.

They had named the little vessel after her favorite cartoon character, but when she painted the name and character on the nose of the boat, one of the designs was going the wrong direction.

Her father said, "Well, you've got to come and you've got to go too," but Carter learned a little about design.

When she went to Louisiana State University, Carter majored in art education. When she finished, she was not certain that she wanted to work with elementary and secondary students, or how important it would become once she did it.

"I was never sure I wanted to teach elementary and high school art, but when I was married, I taught there and loved it, especially elementary," she said.

Carter believes that people naturally have creativity, but it shows itself in different ways.

She uses her own children as an example: among them are an actor, a writer, an artist and an attorney. "I think you have to be a little bit of an actor to be an attorney, but that's a creative profession, too, just because you have to think creatively to put your ideas across in a case," Carter explained.

Speaking of art specifically but saying something which applies to many other fields, she adds, "The skills acquired early are so important. The amount of time it takes to acquire the skills to go with the creativity is she gave small children.

Carter herself started early. She has an old photograph taken when she was 14 years old; she had just won her first competition. She remembers the painting, but no longer has it because it was one of the things she lost to Hurricane Camille.

Hurricanes are a reason Carter now lives in Diamondhead. She has many ties to the Gulf Coast but she does not want to live too close to the water. Her parents lived in New Orleans but built a camp in Pass Christian prior to World War II and

'An artist is just one breath ahead of society, a hair's breadth ahead of the rest in solving problems and being creative.'

vitality important. That's why it's so vital to start early."

After she stopped teaching in schools, she gave private art lessons and found her most rewarding work in the lessons became permanent residents during the latter part of the war. In addition, both her grandparents had summer homes on the coast.

"I bought this house about two and a half years ago and completely redesigned the inside. The studio up front had a lot to do with my buying it, but now I want more room. I want a barn," she said, showing where her projects have overflowed into the garage and even the dining room, where she is experimenting with a project involving a heavy canvas stretched over a lighter one.

"I'm basically a two-dimensional artist. I love etchings, drawings, anything of that sort, and I do some conceptual art too," she explains.

"I have done ceramics, jewelry-making, you name it, because when you're an art education major you have to know everything."

Her favorite subject for drawing and painting is the human figure, and she likes working with live models. When she paints, though, she does not paint only what she sees. She alters it to give the picture a message.

"I know what I want a picture to say. One of the paintings in my current show in Biloxi is of a girl sitting on the beach, but it's more than that, because she's reviewing her life. I think people can see what she's doing when they look at it," Carter said.

Another favorite on her personal "Top Three" is design work.

"I love to break up space...My most relaxing, enjoyable work is literally breaking up space in a desirable way, an intriguing way. The person looks at it and finds himself trying to work through it."

"I love to do what I call conceptual work, understanding the human mind. I like to put across some particular emotion, some particular theme that is inherent in the human mind."

Not all her conceptual work is that complex. Her most recent piece is a pink neon tube bent into the abstract form of a rabbit. It is taken from a model Carter made of bent wire. The message in this one is simply "rabbit."

"I didn't want to make an exact rabbit. I just wanted to get the feeling of the rabbit, to create the illusion and the image using very few lines."

Carter's favorite medium is

oil paint because it is easiest to control, but her formal education in art does not control her choices.

"I have used everything, things out of my kitchen, things out of my garage, anything to help me do what I want to do," she said.

Carter plans to take a break after her current show at the Biloxi Library closes Friday. She wants to prepare to do shows at home. She stopped competing many years ago and is already selling most of her work from her house rather than public exhibits.

It was about a decade ago that Carter chose to give up other work and become a full-time artist. She sees art as vital to society because "Man drew something before he ever wrote words or composed music."

"Art is a form of problem-solving and that's necessary to survival. An artist is just one breath ahead of society, a hair's breadth ahead of the rest in solving problems and being creative. Artists are also educators and that makes them really necessary to survival," she said.

Starting her next project should not be difficult for Carter, who usually has several in progress at once and has plenty of ideas for the future.

"I don't have enough lives to do everything I've thought to do," she said.

St. Stanislaus Band earns 33 'superior' ratings in contest

Competition in a recent East Central High School Band Festival netted "superior" rating for 33 members of the St. Stanislaus School Band.

Forty-two high school and junior high students from St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy participated in solo and ensemble categories in the event, held in Hurley, Miss.

Medals for superior performance will be awarded to students at the May 2 Spring Awards Band Concert.

"Excellent" ratings were achieved by six band members, while three received "good" ratings.

Band students competing in solo and ensemble, but not pictured above are Dwayne Bremer, Teddy Belsom, Doug Morrison, Matt Heitzmann, Martin Hood, Albert Biehl and Michael Bingham.

Also Billy Saunders, William Gilson, Chris Delgado, Michael Leach, Wedon Brown, Magan Winter, James Konen, Scott Hooper, Ronnie Hedrick, Terry Snell and Chuck Fazio.

Hill, Higginbotham headline Coast Writers Conference

Ruth Beebe Hill spent 25 years of study and work perfecting her acclaimed novel, Hanta Yo, a sweeping and detailed account of the development of an early Sioux tribe.

With a lineage tracing back to the Mayflower and including the first president of Yale and the owner/publisher of the oldest Democratic newspaper, Hill developed an early and natural interest in recording history.

Her first published work at age nine was a contest essay about the Seneca Indians on the Allegheny Reservation.

That early fascination with the American Indian took new form in 1950 when, after distinguishing herself in business and academic fields, she began work on her book.

Once completed, the manuscript was painstakingly translated by an Indian scholar into the now-archaic Dakota/Lakota dialect, then retranslated back into English to retain the Indian idiom. This work alone took eight years.

The patience and demand for authenticity produced a book that received international acclaim. Hanta Yo was named first alternate in fiction for the Pulitzer Prize in 1979. Other awards include Overseas Book Award, 1979; Western Heritage Award, 1979; Ohioana Award for Literature; American Academy of Achievement; Booksellers Award for Excellence in Writing; and several others.

Hanta Yo is published in eight languages, with a new German edition due out this year.

Hill, who is currently writing dust jackets for six major publishing houses, spends part of each year at her home in Diamondhead. She tours extensively with lectures and appearances at universities nationwide. She will be the morning plenary speaker for the conference.

Jay Higginbotham, who is director of the Mobile Municipal Archives, has traced his roots back to the 1702 settlement of his ancestors in the Pascagoula area. His family history records a connection through a great-grandfather to French painter Degas. His 13 published books include accounts of the founding of Mobile and stories of Pascagoula and the Singing River legends.

Higginbotham will be the luncheon speaker, with announcement of winners in the Creative Writing Contest to follow. Cash prizes and certificates will be awarded to first, second and third place winners.

Morning information sessions will be held in fiction, non-fiction and poetry. Claudia Reilly, now a resident of Ocean Springs, will bring her experience as a former New American Library editor, playwright and screenwriter to the fiction session. Reilly is also the author of the novelizations of Crimes of the Heart and Nuts.

Mary Ann Wells of Hattiesburg will talk about freelancing and non-fiction. A travel and feature writer and journalist, Wells has published in more than 100 magazines and newspapers and received numerous awards.

She is also the author of A History Lover's Guide to Mississippi and A Guide of Mississippi's Festivals, Fairs and Flea Markets.

Poetry will be led by Sue Owen of Baton Rouge. Owen's work has appeared widely in magazine and anthology publications.

Her collection, Nursery Rhymes for the Dead, was a finalist in the 1979 National Poetry Series open competition and has had two printings.

An afternoon panel of staff members and publishing representatives will be moderated by Patricia Boatner of Gulfport. Display rooms will be open all day. Exhibits include area bookstores, authors, publishers and related businesses and services.

Representatives from Mississippi Coast Magazine, Quail Ridge Press, Southern Poetry Association, Mississippi Poetry Society South and many others will be on hand.

The conference will take place in Parker Hall at William Carey College. Fees of $25 for GCWA members and $30 for non-members cover tuition, lunch and displays admission, with membership to Aug. 1 in GCWA included for non-members.

Both GCWA and the conference are open to anyone interested in the craft of writing. Early conference registration is advised.

For more information, call 832-2713 or 863-8190.

Embossing workshop conducted by Parker

South Mississippi artist Barbara Parker will conduct an all-day paper embossing workshop at Pearl River College on April 6 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The workshop fee is $20 and will cover basic materials and lunch.

Parker, who resides in Hattiesburg, has conducted numerous classes and workshops in embossing and paper making.

This workshop will feature the making of embossing designs and its use in making personal greeting cards.

Class is limited due to equipment usage and space, so pre-registration is encouraged. If space allows, registration for the workshop will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. just prior to the class on Thursday, April 6.

Parker has trained at the Arrowmont School of Arts in Gatlinburg, Tenn. and at other locations in Mississippi.

She has been involved in many group exhibits and has been featured in several one-person shows, winning numerous awards during her career.

For more information or registration forms call the PRC Arts Department at 795-6801, ext. 230, during school hours.

Marcus art exhibit featured at Frame Shop

Nostalgic turn-of-the-century architecture in Hancock County will be featured in a showing of original artwork by Daniel M. Marcus at the Frame Shoppe, 715 Highway 90, Waveland.

The exhibit will be on display for two weeks, beginning March 31. The artist's theme is "Yesterday".

A New Orleans native of French descent, Dan Marcus has resided in Bay St. Louis for the past 8 years.

He studied fine and commercial art at the John McCrady Art School in New Orleans. He was an art attendant for Fitzgerald Advertising Agency and children's art instructor for United Way, also in New Orleans.

Marcus has traveled and worked throughout the Southeast, and much of his work features the nostalgic architecture of the old South and the streets of old New Orleans.

Dillistone, Lambert, Marchal named to CEHS Who's Who

Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of three seniors as members of the 1988 "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Students selected are Tracy Dillistone, Alexander Lambert III and Malise Marchal.

Dillistone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Dillistone of Pass Christian, is vice-president of the CEHS Student Council, president of Students Against Driving Drunk and captain of the Raider cheerleaders.

She is editor of the Coast Quarterly, the school's literary magazine and is associate business manager of the yearbook.

Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lambert of Pass Christian, is a member of the National Honor Society and layout editor of the school yearbook.

He is captain of the Raider football team and a member of the basketball team. He was recently honored as Student of the Month by the Gulfport Exchange Club.

Marchal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Marchal of Pass Christian, is vice-president of the senior class, vice-president of the National Honor Society, captain of the WYES Varsity Quiz Bowl Team, and business manager of the school annual, "The Pigeonhole."

She was the 1988 recipient of the Bausch and Lomb Science Award and received the DAR Good Citizen Award for 1988-89.

"Who's Who Among American High School Students" has funded more than $100,000 to qualified students through various scholarship programs.

For more than 21 years, "Who's Who" has communicated with over 30,000 institutions to identify and select candidates for recognition. This is a very competitive program with only 5 percent of our nation's high school students honored each year.

Pine Burr Council hosts awards banquet

The Pine Burr Area Council, Boy Scouts of America will host the 25th annual Eagle Scout Recognition Banquet Friday, March 31, at the Hattiesburg Coca-Cola complex.

The Pine Burr Area Council serves scouts and scouters in the 16 counties of southeast Mississippi. Forty-four Eagle Scouts will receive special recognition during the program.

An addition to the Eagle Scouts there will be six Silver Beaver Awards presented to adult scouters from the council service area. The Silver Beaver is the highest award a local council can bestow upon an adult scouter for his noteworthy service.

Guest speaker will be Rep. Larkin I. Smith.

CHRIST EPISCOPAL second-grader Kyle Mann takes time to read in the school's library recently. His love of reading led him to a third-place finish in the final round of the Mississippi Read-a-thon recently. He read 50 books during the Read-a-thon to collect $235 for charity. Dinamation offers 'pizza with dinosaurs'

Dinosaur eggs, babies, and most recently, a juvenile Parasaurolophus have been added to the Louisiana Nature and Science Center's Dinamation Exhibit.

They represent the rarest and most prized scientific discoveries in our time.

Nesting colonies recently excavated in Montana provide evidence of nurturing and parental care by duckbill dinosaurs.

Parasaurolophus diorama recreates a nesting area with a baby and eggs in the nest while the mother prods a reluctant juvenile out into the world in its own.

According to world-renowned dinosaur expert Robert Bakker, assistant curator of the Paleontology Department at the University of Colorado, the 10 dinosaurs on display at the Dinamation exhibit are the most accurate moving dinosaur replicas ever made.

To add to the fun at the exhibit Dinamation and Domino's Pizza will host Pizza with the Dinosaurs—a Family Night at Dinamation on Friday, March 31 from 6-8 p.m. Cost is $7 for adults and $5 for children.

Price includes admission to Dinamation, Domino's Pizza, special tours, slide presentation and fun craft activities for children (bring your own T-shirt). Pizza with the Dinosaurs is by reservation only. Call 566-7710 or 566-0006 for reservations.

School groups, clubs and employee organizations are encouraged to preschedule their visits to the Dinamation exhibit.

After-hour parties may also be scheduled. The Louisiana Nature and Science Center takes great pride in this off-site exhibit, located at 412 N. Peters Street in the French Quarter.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

What will you do with all those brightly colored hard-cooked (boiled) Easter eggs after the fun of coloring them and later joining the youngsters in an Easter Egg Hunt?

Well, there's always egg salad and deviled eggs and so on, but there are other tasty ways to use up the surplus of Easter eggs—that is, after you've checked and checked again to be sure that you've found them all, lest a week or so later you discover one or two mashed under a sofa cushion or such!

And, make sure that you toss out the ones which have been stepped on or cracked up a bit in the course of the annual Easter Egg Hunt, of course.

I'm quite fond of stuffed or deviled eggs, especially with chopped ripe or green olives added to the mixture. Asparagus and egg salad (halved hard-cooked eggs) is another favorite, as is spinach, bacon and sliced egg salad.

This Eastertime I'm enjoying a new taste treat, new to me at least, thanks to Holly (Schoenberger) Osman, who often shares her special recipes with me, and with her mother Joyce.

Holly, with husband Sam and their two little daughters, now lives on the West Coast, and to her cooking, a blend of the Southern and from the West Coast and also Creole and other sorts she's known all of her life, has added many new ones. From Sam's Egyptian heritage, among them:

FRIED HARD-BOILED EGGS

As Holly says, hard-boil the desired number of eggs and let cool (in this case, you'll have them leftover from the Easter Bunny.)

At any rate, peel the eggs (and, incidentally, if you peel the eggs, starting from the large end, it's easier—I don't know why, it just is, at least for me!)

Heat one-fourth cup to one-half cup of olive oil in your cast iron (or other heavy) skillet, and when the oil is quite hot, drop eggs one by one into the oil and keep turning the eggs over until crusty and browned. Remove, and drain, and serve with condiments, such as green pepper jelly and/or Creole mustard.

Holly writes that this is a favorite before-dinner tidbit, equally delicious at other times—and an addition to "company fare."

There's a variation on this theme which I've enjoyed for a long time—Cajun Eggs (some call them Scotch Eggs). In this recipe, wrap each peeled hard-boiled egg in enough good hot Cajun sausage (or other sort, if you're doing Scotch Eggs) to make a little covering all around the egg.

Brush with beaten egg (raw, of course) then roll in bread crumbs. Refrigerate until cold, even overnight if you wish. When ready to serve the eggs, let just about an inch of oil or grease get quite hot in your heavy iron skillet.

Place the eggs in the hot oil and fry until the sausage is done, say 15 minutes or a bit more if necessary. Drain and cut the eggs in half lengthwise, and serve at once. I like these as appetizers, also as a supper dish. Enjoy!

Small business course offered by PRCC

Pearl River Community College will host an eight-week course on operating small businesses, beginning with a registration meeting at 6 p.m. April 11, in the media room of the school's main-campus library.

The course will cover such issues as developing business ideas, marketing techniques, legal concerns, market planning and raising venture capital.

The registration fee, including the costs of books and materials, is $25.

For more information call PRC at 795-6801, ext. 311.

SENIOR CITIZENS HAPPENINGS

By Eve McDonald

CENTER WARMING

April 11, Tuesday, we will have our official center opening. Our board of directors, along with the board of RSVP will host this event.

Mayor Vic Frankiewicz will cut the ribbon and our boards will provide refreshments.

It has been suggested that we have a money tree available for those who would care to contribute for some needed items. Please come whether you care to donate or not. We are very proud of our new area and want all to see it.

NEW SERVICE

Harold Necaise will be helping our men here at the center starting Wednesday afternoon. Harold is a licensed barber and will do either a shave, haircut or both for $4 each.

This service is only available for our clients, those 60 or over.

Harold is Betty Necaise's (RSVP secretary) husband, and we will be fortunate to have this service for you guests.

FAIR, FESTIVALS, FIELD DAYS

This beautiful weather gets us all out and we have plenty to do. There are so many events.

April 1 there will be a craft fair at the center and the VCJ

Gym and Civic Center. The recreation folks of Bay St. Louis are sponsoring this event and we will be selling red beans and rice—so come on by!

April 11 will be our center warming at 10:30 a.m.

April 13 is Buccaneer Park Field Day. We will have some of our folks out there demonstrating crafts.

May 6 and 7 will be a craft fair which we are sponsoring. We hope to have folks from three states with booths of food and crafts for sale.

The fair will be at VCJ and anyone interested in a booth, please call 467-9292. Tee Oliver is overall chairperson. Our folks are already busy filling up boxes of gift items which will be for sale.

June 4 is Beachfront Festival on the beach in downtown Bay St. Louis. This is always a big fun event.

RADIO

If you are interested in our classes and don't know when we have them—just listen to the "mighty 1190" AM on your radio every weekday at 7:30 a.m.

We give the schedule of the day plus any other interesting news for senior citizens. We have been having the volunteer of the day also. Tune in!

Legal line offers free advice Wednesday

On Wednesday, April 5 from 6-7 p.m., a staff of volunteer attorneys will be answering legal questions from the general public at 1-374-4160.

This is no longer a toll-free number. All calls will be charged to the telephone from which the call is made.

This service is sponsored by the Harrison County Young Lawyers, the South Mississippi Planning and Development District's Area Agency on Aging, and South Mississippi Legal Services Corporation.

The "First Wednesday Legal Line" offers the public an opportunity to call for legal information and referral services for a specific problem.

This service is especially intended for elderly, handicapped and low-income individuals who may not have access to an attorney or who may not know whether the problem requires the assistance of one.

If They Don't Fit - They're No Bargain!

Like clothes, property and casualty insurance coverage which does not fit is no bargain - no matter what the cost. A policy that doesn't suit your specific needs, whether big or small, is not a smart buy.

To insure proper fit, tailor-made to your individual needs, we invite you to check with our agency. We have many "sizes," in choice selections, available from more than one company in our "insurance department store." Give us the opportunity to provide you with properly measured coverage. We assure you we have the homeowners, auto liability and other policies which will "fit you to a T."

Medical Advancements Mean New Hope for Cancer Patients

Cancer is a subject no one really wants to discuss. It is often associated with fear, uncertainty and hopelessness. But through the years, dedicated professionals have been striving to change those fears into hopes, and now doctors say they are beginning to see a light at the end of the tunnel.

"We're seeing more and more success stories with cancer patients all the time," said Dr. Edwin Davidson, oncologist on staff with Hancock Medical Center. "We're seeing more cures and we're adding to quality of life, as well. This, too, is very important."

Dr. Davidson credited this success to more extensive research and several medical breakthroughs in the field of oncology (the study of cancer). One such recent

"Since chemotherapy usually destroys the bone marrow, this transplant allows the treatment to counteract cancer cells while preventing the adverse side effects of chemotherapy upon bone marrow," Dr. Davidson said. "This has been good news for many cancer patients and the result has been more cures."

Among other medical advances, Dr. Davidson related the discovery of a new hormone agent which is allowing doctors to bypass chemotherapy altogether in the treatment of cancer.

"In many cases, this has put the cancer in remission; that is, we can detect no evidence of the disease," he said.

Dr. Davidson said this type of treatment is presently being used on several patients in Hancock County, and the result is very encouraging, especially in the treatment of carcinoid, cancer of the intokin or hormone-making tissue.

Another treatment which is still being developed involves the use of monoclonal antibodies or proteins to be used in the treatment of all types of cancer. These antibodies could be injected directly into the cancerous area without surgery and without using chemotherapy, thus destroying even microscopic areas of cancer.

"We're on the threshold of this development and can expect to see it's usage by the early 1990s," Dr. Davidson said.

The doctor related that, during ten years of practice on the Gulf Coast, the most commonly occurring cancer he has observed is that of the colon and rectum, with breast cancer among women being second in development involves bone marrow (or autologous) transplants which are done after chemotherapy treatments have been administered. Bone marrow is the soft material that fills bone cavities and is the major site of blood cell formation. While this autologous transplant shields the marrow, it allows chemotherapy to fully work against the cancer.

New CT Scanner at Hancock Medical Center

CT Scanner (computerized tomography unit). Although the name may sound confusing, a CT Scanner's function is quite simple, according to Jeanie Moran, Hancock Medical Center's department manager of radiology. HMC has recently purchased a CT Scanner to improve the hospital's service to the community.

"A CT Scanner is extremely useful in diagnosing diseases and injuries of all kinds," explained Ms. Moran. "It looks sort of like a giant donut in a box. We have built a modular unit just behind the radiology department to accommodate the new equipment. It's the newest and most advanced of its kind."

Jeanie Moran, radiology department manager, has performed approximately 64 CAT Scans each month since HMC acquired the full-time scanner in January.

A CT Scan (or CAT Scan) image is interpreted by a computer in a room adjacent to the scanner and is capable of showing the size and shape of body organs, layer by layer.

"It gives the image in a kind of horizontal slicing. It's much like analyzing a loaf of bread, slice by slice," commented Dr. Ray Tipton, radiologist on Hancock Medical Center's staff. "The scanner is especially helpful in diagnosing injuries to the head. We see a lot of head and neck injuries as well as innerabdominal bleeding from wrecks, and the scanner allows us to look inside the body without surgery."

Dr. Tipton explained that the procedure uses a combination of x-ray and computer technology to project this cross-section imaging. A detailed, computerized diagram appears on the operator's screen, producing an image of each "slice" of the patient's x-ray.

"But the process is neither uncomfortable nor time-consuming," the doctor said. "It is also less invasive than former procedures used."

Dr. Tipton explained that CT Scan imaging is the most sensitive and accurate method for detecting most types of tumors. Because the procedure allows doctors to differentiate between solid and liquid, it is extremely accurate in detecting and diagnosing cysts and abscesses as well as tumors while they are still in their earliest stages.

"The scanner is especially helpful in diagnosing injuries to the head. We see a lot of head and neck injuries as well as innerabdominal bleeding from wrecks, and the scanner allows us to look inside the body without surgery."

"A CT Scan can be used to guide the biopsy of a suspected tumor," the doctor continued, "thereby decreasing the need for surgery."

The process is called CT Guided Needle Biopsy and can be performed on an outpatient basis. During the procedure, the suspected mass is examined "slice by slice" by the scanner to find a safe area (one with no blood vessels or valves). A needle is then inserted to remove a small segment of the tumor while the patient is under local anesthesia. The segment is examined and then diagnosed (a biopsy performed), completely avoiding major surgery.

"The vast majority of our diagnoses can be associated with ruptured disks, sinus problems and diseases of the brain, chest, abdomen and spinal column," Dr. Tipton said. "The CT scanner has been needed on a full-time basis."

"Both in- and outpatients are now seen every day at Hancock Medical Center. Prior to the purchase of the scanner, patients were seen only three days a week."

"We now have the advantage of a full-time scanner so people in the community will not have to leave town for the service," said Ms. Moran. "In addition, our doctors are very confident in their analyses because of the CT scanner's precision."

Since Ms. Moran joined the radiology staff of HMC 22 years ago, other improvements and additions have also been made in her department. All radiology services are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. In addition, HMC's mammography unit has been upgraded with state-of-the-art mammography equipment to respond to a wider range of women's healthcare needs.

"The people in this department also have a very good attitude about their work," Ms. Moran added, "and this is what it takes to provide the highest quality radiology services to our patients." ■

Orthopedic Surgeon Joins HMC Medical Staff

Dr. James Moore, a specialist in orthopedic surgery, has joined the staff of Hancock Medical Center. Dr. Moore and his wife Sharon will be moving to Hancock County from Paris, Tennessee, at the end of March.

After earning his medical degree from the University of Tennessee Center for Health Sciences, Dr. Moore completed his residency at Campbell Clinic in Memphis, Tennessee. Dr. Moore is board-certified in his field.

"I'm really looking forward to practicing in Hancock County," the doctor said. "It's great to be part of a progressive hospital like Hancock Medical Center."

Dr. Moore said April 1 is the projected opening of his office at 202 Drinkwater Blvd., Suite A, in Bay St. Louis; office hours will be 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. four days per week.

As an orthopedic specialist, Dr. Moore deals with any musculoskeletal problem: problems relating to bones, joints or muscles. He is the second orthopedist in Bay St. Louis, adding specialty coverage to that now provided by Dr. Tomas Flores.

Welcome to Hancock County, Dr. Moore! ■ occurrence. While researchers are on the threshold of a cure, Dr. Davidson said they are not there yet. "Although colorectal cancer can be detected earlier than other forms of cancer, the cure rate is not where we want it to be," the doctor said. "We are, however, seeing improved survival all the time."

Dr. Davidson highly recommends colon-rectal cancer testing, which can be done at home. Because this type of cancer is easily detectable, often corrective measures can be taken which will increase survival. Colon-rectal cancer detection kits can be obtained at most drug stores for less than ten dollars.

"Colon-rectal cancer is primarily an older person's disease," Dr. Davidson said. He stresses to his patients the importance of regular check-ups, especially for those aged 65 and older because more tests are involved, and the signs are taken more seriously.

But what about prevention? Dr. Davidson said there are some things we can do to lessen our risk of developing cancer.

"We're seeing more and more success stories with cancer patients all the time," said Dr. Edwin Davidson, oncologist on staff with Hancock Medical Center.

"Preventing cancer is very much like preventing heart disease," Dr. Davidson said. "And the risk factors are much the same. Smoking and/or a diet high in fat and cholesterol have been proven factors in causing both heart disease and cancer. Studies done in other cultures, where foods high in fiber are primarily consumed, have shown a lesser occurrence of colon cancer than in America, where we live on fast foods."

Dr. Davidson said he has seen more advances in the treatment of breast cancer and lymphoma (cancer of the lymph glands) than in any other type of cancer.

"We have seen a 20 percent to 30 percent increased cure rate in breast cancer, as well as a five-year to ten-year remission among lymphoma patients," the doctor said.

Much of the cure rate among breast cancer patients can be attributed to the earlier detection made possible with mammography, breast x-rays which are stressed for women aged 35 and older. Mammography can detect cancer while it is still at the nonpalpable level, while it may in reality be several years before the cancer has grown large enough to be felt.

"You can find evidence of cancer on a mammogram sooner than you can find it by any other method," Dr. Davidson said, "and the sooner you find it, the greater the chances of complete recovery."

Hancock Medical Center utilizes state-of-the-art mammography equipment in a comfortable setting to help women feel more at ease. Doctors recommend a mammogram every two years for women 40 to 50 years of age and every year for those women over 50 years of age.

Dr. Davidson and Dr. Bertin Chevis, HMC's chief of staff, consult a patient's chart.

"Women shouldn't wait until a problem occurs to learn about cancer," the doctor said. "Through mammography, breast cancer can be discovered; and if detected early enough, it can be treated very successfully."

"You can find evidence of cancer on a mammogram sooner than you can find it by any other method," Dr. Davidson said, "and the sooner you find it, the greater the chances of complete recovery."

Dr. Davidson is in practice with Dr. P. Pande at 1500 45th Avenue in Gulfport. Their office number is 864-3000. Both doctors are willing to be guest speakers for groups interested in learning more about cancer its causes and prevention. Those wanting more information about scheduling a guest speaker should contact Hancock Medical Center at 467-9081 ext. 2225.

Finally, the research through the years is beginning to pay off, and success stories are becoming more and more common every day. The war isn't over yet, but in the fight against cancer, battles are being won every day. ■

HealthWise Recipes

Old Man Winter has finally packed his bags and spring is well on its way. For most of us, that means it's time to get back into shape with exercise and a healthy diet. Just for fun, try these heart-healthy, low-cholesterol, high-fiber dishes with a refreshing springtime twist:

WHOLE WHEAT MUFFINS

- 1 cup whole wheat flour
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1 egg or egg substitute (or 2 egg whites)
- 1 cup skim milk
- 1/2 cup oil

Grease the muffin tins lightly with oil. Sift the two kinds of flour together with the salt, baking powder and sugar. Add the egg, milk and oil. Stir quickly only until barely blended. Do not beat. Fill each muffin tin 2/3 full. Bake at 425° F for 20 to 25 minutes. YIELD: 12 2 1/4-inch muffins. Approx. Cal./Serv.: 175

BANANA-STRAWBERRY SHERBERT

- 3 medium-size ripe bananas, quartered
- 1 1/2 cups low-fat buttermilk
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 cups fresh strawberries, hulled and mashed
- 1 egg white, stiffly beaten

Combine bananas, buttermilk, sugar, lemon juice, and vanilla in container of an electric blender or food processor; process until smooth. Pour mixture into a 9-inch square baking pan; freeze until mixture becomes slushy. Scoop mixture into container of an electric blender or food processor; process until smooth. Fold in strawberries and egg whites; return mixture to baking pan. Freeze until firm. Scoop mixture into individual serving dishes. YIELD: 5 cups. FROM: Southern Living Cooking Light, 1987, p. 215.

GREEN BEANS WITH SUNFLOWER SEEDS

- 1 pound fresh green beans
- 1/2 cup chopped onions
- 1 teaspoon minced garlic
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- Shake crushed red pepper (optional)
- 1/3 cup water
- 3 tablespoons sunflower seeds
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano

Snap ends off beans and break into 1/2" lengths. If very young, leave whole. Wash and place in saucepan. Sprinkle onion, garlic, salt, and pepper over beans. Add water. Cover tightly. Cook on high until steaming, reduce heat, and cook about 20 minutes until beans are crisp-tender. Remove lid. Pour off excess liquid. Sprinkle sunflower seeds and oregano over beans. Mix lightly. YIELD: 6 servings (47 calories per serving). Pro. 2/Fat 2/Carb 6.0/Sod. 47/ Pot. 128. FROM: American Diabetes Assn. Family Cookbook, Vol. II, P. 300.

APRICOT HAM STEAK

- 1 1/2 pound ham slice, cut 2 inches thick
- whole cloves
- 1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 can peeled whole apricots (16 oz.)

Remove any fat around the slice of ham. Place in a shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with sugar and stud the sides with cloves. Drain the apricot juice. Pour 1/3 cup of the juice over the ham. Bake at 325° F for 1 hour, basting often with the juice in the pan. Arrange the drained apricots on top of the ham and bake 15 minutes longer or until richly glazed. YIELD: 6 servings. Approx. Cal./Serv.: 270.
